

[MICROSCOPE LIGHT REGULATOR]

Abstract

A control system has been designed that maintains the overall intensity of a microscope's viewed image at a constant level . The system is further enhanced to match the color character of the microscope illuminator to a user-established color reference for replication and comparison purposes. A comparison bridge utilizing this system is described that is fully balanced in intensity and color character.